PREFACE

Until this transcription was made any study of the Clifton and Hotwells 1851 Census had to be done with the aid of a microfilm viewer. It is hoped that this printed version, together with indexes of names and places, carried out with the permission of the Public Record Office, will make the study of the social history of Clifton & Hotwells in the 19th century very much easier.

Acknowledgements

The Index of Names was originally compiled by Mr J. Watts for the Bristol Family History Society. This has enabled me to compare his transcription of some of the nearly illegible names and ages with my own. The name index, printed in this book has been based on Mr Watt's work with some alterations which have become apparent as the transcription progressed.

I am most grateful to Mr Watts for allowing me to use his index and my sister, Sue Clarke for proof reading and advice. I am also extremely grateful to Mr Michael Booker and Dr A.B. Cottle for checking the Index of Places and for their suggestions for the place names which were difficult to identify.

1851 CENSUS OF CLIFTON

INTRODUCTION

This Census throws light on several aspects of Social history, such as the age that children were made to work, the crowded conditions in which the poorer people had to live and, by seeing the places where they were born, a little knowledge can be gained about the movement of people as they went in search of work.

Insights into the welfare of children can be made throughout the census. Lord Ashley, later Lord Shaftesbury, supported a Bill for the abolition of climbing boys and this law was passed in 1840. Unfortunately, as the following two entries show, the law was evaded to such an extent that Lord Shaftesbury had to bring in a further Bill in 1875 when at last the dreadful practice of using boys in this manner stopped. An eight year old child living at 1 Providence Place was used by his father as a chimney sweep. A second child aged eleven was apprenticed to a chimney sweep and lived with his master in Clifton Road.

Quite young children were still being sent out to work in 1851. Ten-year-old Margaret O'Bryan was born in Ireland and became a servant in 5 Grenville Place. She, together with another servant aged twenty-seven, looked after a Civil Engineer, his wife and adult daughter. Ten was also the age of a footboy called Samuel Parsons; he lodged with a widowed cook and a coachman and his wife in Sion Mews. Two brothers aged fifteen and thirteen and another twelve-year-old boy were quarry boys working at the Rocks, (presumably Avon Gorge). It is not certain how many children really attended school; most are marked as "scholars" in the census but it is probable that in a great many cases this description was only for the census. In some cases such as the coachman's children in Wellington Place no occupation is given.

Among the birthplaces mentioned in the census is Walls Quarry; probably this was near Sea Walls. Many people were born in Ireland. Some will have come over to England to find work or because of the famine. There were also many born in India and the West Indies including children at boarding school in Clifton. Esther Southay was born at sea as were five other people in the census. It is not surprising to find a number of mariners born in Pill.

John Latimer* describes the number of cases of sickness in Bristol in 1845 as 15,000 of which 444 deaths were caused by cholera. The overcrowding he mentions can be seen in the census in many places especially in Hotwells and Jacobs Wells. Twenty people lived in Black Horse Lane House, twenty in a house in Hotwell Road, twenty-five at 4 Burton's Court, ten of whom were children and twenty-two people at No 4 Water's Court including one blind and one deaf. Four families lived in 20 Berkeley Place and of these twelve were children. A great number of people lived in the houses in South Green Street although the 45 names given under number 6 may have been due to a mistake by the Enumerator.

The rich were not much better off when it came to sewage disposal. John Latimer goes on to describe what was happening in Clifton before 1853. Two cesspits were actually under the houses in Clarence Place. Richmond Terrace, Clifton Park, Cambridge Place, Burlington Place and South Parade had no drainage other than cesspools. The field in front of Alma Road was filled with sewage from the Blackboy Hill district. Oakfield Road was a quagmire and there were many complaints about the stench at the back of Park Place.

Some people managed to rear their families in spite of the insanitary conditions. The largest number of children living at home at the time of the census was Thomas Bryan, a carpenter of Highland Place, he had five sons and five daughters in the house. Isaac Jones, a labourer of the Quarry had six sons and three daughters and Samuel Skelton, a carpenter of Jones Court had three sons and six daughters. Christopher Watkins, a billiard table-maker in Charlton Place, John Vickery, a baker in Hotwells Road and John Seabourne, a shipwright in Lambswell Court had each got eight children living at home. Thomas Martin, a farm labourer of Wilson's Cottages near the Downs reared four boys and three girls including two pairs of twins. The twins had reached the ages of eleven and nine and were described as scholars although it is not known if they ever attended a school. No doubt Mrs Wilson and some of the wives of the men mentioned above had lost some children especially as Mrs Wilson had a seven year gap before the birth of her last child, aged two years at the time of the census.

The various places that people lived in during their lifetimes can be observed from the places where their children were born. Elizabeth Fox (p. 339) was born in Clifton but had her child in America before returning to Clifton before 1851. The search for work and then for accommodation in Bristol can be seen by the entry for the sawyer, Matthew McDonant, who was born in Dublin, moved to Wexford, back to Dublin and then to St James' Parish in Bristol, then to St Augustine's Parish before finally settling in Clifton. Elizabeth Scott brought her three daughters, son-in-law, nephew and three servants down from Scotland where all had been born. A fourth servant in her house had been born in Shropshire. Charles Clarke's wife Elizabeth (nee Shore) brought two servants from her family home at Whatley when she married, possibly a mother and daughter named Elizabeth and Eliza Wilmot. The third servant, Mary Goford had been born at Nunney a nearby parish to Whatley in Somerset. In Clifton they lived in Park Place where inhabitants complained of the smell three years after the date of this census (see above).

NOTES ON THE TRANSCRIPTION

The Census is made up of fourteen sections a - m, each with a different enumerator. At the beginning of each section is a Description of the Enumeration District, a Summary of Totals, an Enumerator's Summary and a Certificate.

Summaries of the roads and streets can be found in the Description of the Enumeration District and from this it can be seen that some of the streets are not included in the census, no doubt the forms went astray. Examples of streets omitted are Lime Kiln Dock, Lower Court in Hotwells and Yearsley's Buildings. Some houses have been omitted although they may be entered under another name.

The Summary of Totals includes the totals for each page under the following headings:-

The number of separate occupiers
Houses Inhabited
Uninhabited
Buildings
Persons Males
Females

These totals have not been transcribed because three times in the census they have been described as inaccurate. On the first occasion an extra page was inserted before section f and the following was written "This book is so full of errors that it is impossible to place any dependance on the accuracy of the above numbers. Ages classified Feb. 9 1852, reclassified Feb. 25 '52, [signed] Samuel Deering". On the second occasion an entry was made on an extra page before section k "this total is incorrect. Ages classified Feb. 9 1852, reclassified Feb. 25 '52, [signed] Samuel Deering" and on the last occasion an extra page had been added at the end of the Census and the words "The total is very incorrect. Ages classified Feb. 11 1852, reclassified Feb. 26 '52, [signed] Samuel Deering" was written.
A partly filled in Summary of Totals was placed after p. 73 in section a, this was not transcribed.

The Enumerator's Summary is divided into four parts, a), b), c), & d).

a) has the following headings:-

A note is made in Section a, "Schedules 232 & 242 numbered twice." Another note is made in Section E, "Schedules numbered when left at the houses, the following not filled up by reason of the person having left before 30th March. No 67 filled in by a person who slept on ship board"

b) has the following headings:-

Witness my hand this 30th day of April 1851.
Signed C. Latcham

The Census has the following headings printed at the top of each page, except those of the Summaries and Certificates. These headings have been omitted in the transcription:-

Parish or Township of Ecclesiastical District of City or Borough of Town of Village of Underneath are nine column headings.

1 No. of House-holder's schedule.
2 Name of Street, Place or Road, and Name or Number of House.
3 Name & Surname of each Person who abode in the house on the Night of 30th March 1851.
4 Relation to Head of Family.
5 Condition.
6 Age of [under two columns] Male. Female.
7 Rank, Profession or Occupation.
8 Where Born.
9 Whether Blind or Deaf or Dumb.

In the present transcription the pages are numbered at the top of each sheet and these numbers are used in all the indexes. The numbers underneath the page numbers are the page numbers given in the top right hand corner of the original manuscript, each enumerator starts at number one. Three of the enumerators at the end of their sections repeated from page 1 onwards, j for six pages (J), k for nineteen pages (K) and m for fifteen pages (M). Each house or flat entry is numbered and these also start at number one at the beginning of each section.

The counties given under the place of birth are not always correct for the 1851 County Boundaries. For example Chew Magna is given as Gloucestershire on one occasion and several times Ubley is given as Gloucestershire (although it is possible that Uley was intended), Rugby was put in Yorkshire on one occasion, Cowbridge in Gloucestershire on p. 604 and Minchinghampton in Wiltshire on p. 592.

In the original manuscript the City and County of Bristol is frequently described as Bristol, Gloucestershire but in this transcription Gloucestershire has been omitted. When Bristol, Somerset was entered it has been transcribed in full, since this may indicate the Somerset side of Bristol. Clifton is sometimes entered as in Bristol and sometimes in Gloucestershire, in these cases both counties have been omitted in the transcription. The county is sometimes given before the village or town but in this transcription the county is always placed at the end.

Since 1851 there have been several changes to the county boundaries. No attempt has been made to give the modern county names in this transcription. When using the Place Index it should be remembered that Monmouth was in England and not in Wales.

The spelling has been written as in the census but where each letter cannot be clearly read the standard spelling has been used. It has to be remembered that the census was compiled from forms returned by the householders and often their writing was very difficult to read, or both the householders and the Enumerators may not have known how to spell the words. The final copy may therefore be very far from what had been intended, for example Barnsley in Gloucestershire was written Barsley and there are very many other examples in the census. Place names which are incorrectly spelt are underlined in the transcription and reference should be made to the Index of Places where suggestions have been made as to the name of the place intended. Some streets have changed their names so a rough location is written in square brackets after the street name.

The names have been checked where possible against Matthew's Bristol Directory for 1851 and the Rent Books but this is only a help with the names of the householder and the streets, all other names can not be checked. Pronunciation presented a difficulty for the Enumerators, for example Hubley was given for Ubley and Atherley for Hatherleigh. Local pronounciation may be the reason why some places can not be found on the modern maps. Two examples not occurring in this census are Wherwell which is pronounced Hurral by the locals and Congresbury which was pronounced Coombesbury by many Bristolians and some locals in the area. The Bristol accent can be "heard" in the written words such as Sahrel for Sarah on p. 37.

Male and female persons were listed in separate columns. In this transcription they are listed together but where the sex of the person is not clear a note is made. Francis is always used for the male and Frances for the female form of the name in this transcription.

The ages have been badly scored over in the original, presumably when checking. In this transcription the ages have been entered in square brackets where the figures are not clear. Not everyone wished to put in their correct age on the census. This has been found by reference to the Parish Register or to the inscriptions on the grave stones.

The handwriting of the Enumerators has also presented a problem especially the way S, I and J were written. For this reason mistakes may occur in this transcription where initials only are given instead of Christian names.

OCCUPATIONS

The total number of inhabitants listed in the census is some 17,950. To serve this population there were 62 grocers, 50 bakers, 25 butchers, 19 greengrocers, 18 milkmen, 4 fishmongers and 14 chemists.

Other necessary services were supplied by 13 hairdressers, 1 chiropodist (who was also a cupper), 432 dressmakers and needlewomen, 54 milliners, 10 hatters, 108 tailors and tailoresses, 459 laundresses and 65 ironers. Many of the latter two occupations were carried out around St Brandon's Hill. The use of the hill by washerwoman was mentioned in a document as early as 1533+. There were 20 blacksmiths and 10 chimney sweeps (see page iii).

Transport was provided by 22 flydrivers and 3 carmen while the aged and infirm were carried by 18 wheel chairmen. There were 89 coachmen but many would have been employed by private families. Medical services were carried out by 11 medical practitioners, 29 surgeons and Joseph Swayne the accoucheur. Occupations in the postal service mentioned in the census included 2 postmasters, 3 postboys and 2 letter carriers.

Over 3687 people were employed as servants. These included butlers, housekeepers, cooks, footmen, parlourmaids, housemaids, kitchenmaids, charwomen, coachmen, grooms and gardeners. This meant that in 1851 over 20% of the population of Clifton and Hotwells was employed in private service.

The 7 architects, 25 builders, 149 carpenters, 65 masons, 43 plasterers and 45 painters and decorators are a reminder of the large amount of building which was being carried out in Clifton in 1851. In the twenty years during and following the census year houses were being built in Pembroke Road, Worcester Road, Worcester Crescent, College Road and the Avenue as well as many houses in the Whiteladies Road area of Clifton.

+ John Latimer, Sixteenth Century Bristol, 1908.

The poverty of the people is not immediately noticable in the pages of the census. Only 58 people are described as paupers or receiving parish relief; it is only from the overcrowding in the various Courts in the Hotwells district that one can guess at the conditions in which the poor were living. Some were more fortunate such as the 18 service men receiving pensions from Chelsea or Greenwich.

Naturally many earned their living from the docks. Three ship builders came from one family, Charles Hill and his two sons who lived at 2 Bellvue. In all about 67 men worked in the ship and steamboat industry and 173 mariners lived in Hotwells and Clifton as well as 19 watermen, 21 naval officers and 3 merchant navymen. Other industries are represented by the 17 wine merchants, the 5 limeburners and the 93 stone quarrymen.

Visitors also brought money to the area. There were 167 lodging housekeepers and 10 hotel keepers as well as 10 ostlers and 14 stablemen. Some of the visitors were at school in Clifton. Several small schools are given in the census including those at 10 Princes Buildings, 19 and 29 Richmond Terrace, 3-4 York Crescent and 4 Litfield Place. 152 teachers are listed, subjects mentioned are classics, English, German, scripture, drawing, painting, music, piano, harp, singing and one taught at the Ragged School. There were 69 governesses, some of whom were employed in private families. 14 were entered as professors.

Clifton still retained its rural side. There were 20 farmers and 26 agricultural workers as well as 7 nurserymen who worked in the nursery gardens around Blackboy Hill.

A full list of all the occupations are given in the charts on pages xxxvi - l.
